

DAILY MUSICAL TREAT AT STATE FAIR BY NATIELLO'S ROYAL HUSSAR BAND

THIRTY-FIVE hussars, musicians, including the famous band leader, Signor Ernesto Natello, and several soloists, constitute the Natello's Royal Hussar Band that will be the big feature at the Kentucky State Fair, September 11-16. The management was very fortunate in securing this band, for there is none better in the country. All the music will be played in white Hussar uniforms that give the band a distinction all its own.

Both the band and the soloists carry out Signor Natello's motto—"Give the people the music they want." This gives satisfaction to all around and pleases everyone. The program, which is changed daily, includes both popular and classic selections.

The soloist with the band is Marianne Conway, one of the foremost concert sopranos in the United States. She has sung with the Boston Pops, Theodore Thomas's Orchestra, Elia, Max Horowitz's Orchestra, and others of similar standing. Her voice is said to be very fine and has a range that enables her to sing all classes of pieces.

A feature that is attracting much

A Tribute To Democratic Principle.

The acceptance of Mr. Charles E. Hughes is an indirect, but striking, tribute to Democratic doctrine and Democratic principle.

In outlining the issues he proposes to raise in the coming campaign Mr. Hughes scarcely notices the domestic achievement of the Wilson administration—principles for which the party has stood for generations—but contents himself with a scathing indictment of Mr. Wilson's foreign policy at a time when partnership should be submerged in patriotism.

Mr. Hughes does not utter a syllable against the income tax measure which was enacted during the Wilson administration. This law has been extended for by the Democratic party for more than a score of years, and was passed by a Wilson congress over the vigorous protest of the financial barons.

Mr. Hughes is likewise silent as to the currency law—the crowning achievement of the Wilson administration—which transferred the control of the country's finances from Wall Street to Washington, and took from the trust magnates and financial barons the power to create a panic at will.

Mr. Hughes has nothing to say against the anti-trust measure, the Rural Credits bill, the Jones Corporation Act, three excellent measures passed under the administration of Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson is unwilling to ditch his campaign upon the issue of democracy vs. Republicanism as it was defined in 1900, 1904, 1908, 1912 or in any other Presidential campaign. He is unwilling to declare that the Democratic party has not redeemed every single platform pledge of 1912, or to point out where the redemption of these pledges has not served the country's best interest.

Mr. Hughes makes a new departure in Presidential campaign. He takes up the case of Victoriano Huerta against the United States Government, and of Wilhelm II against the United States Government, and without giving the slightest bit of particulars, indicts Woodrow Wilson and the present administration for unfaithfulness and numerous other offenses against each of these illustrious patriots.

It is upon these issues and these alone that Mr. Hughes makes election to the highest office in the gift of the people—Elizabeth in Nova.

Short Steps.

A man may boast of his own wisdom but he has nothing to look forward to.

It is easier to acquire a reputation for greatness than it is to have good.

One of the ambitions of the average man is to do those things that have been done by.

Many a woman who doesn't go on her own might give her husband peace of mind.

Nothing is gained by abusing those whose opinions differ from your own.

Many a man who thinks he's brilliant is not even a dandy bright.

People will have a good opinion of you if you agree with them.

Taking The Home Paper.

Do you know of a person in his whole community who would be willing to go through life month by month and year by year without a knowledge of the news features of the township in which he resides? Would you like to be that person? It is difficult to convince the average reader of the real value of his home paper unless he has at some time or other been forced to do without it. Then it is that its value is brought home to him.

Most people subscribe for the home paper, read it, enjoy it and absorb the news. It contains as a matter of course, giving scarcely a thought to the vast amount of labor entailed in the production of the issue. An issue of the home paper is a tremendous concentration of thought and energy and perseverance of the part of both the editor and his entire force of employees. The work thus represented on an issue of this paper, for instance, costs the reader less than the cost of the issue of the home paper. Would you like to be the editor's share for a week, or the month, or permanently? Would you consider that the labor thus involved had met with just compensation?

An Unreasonable Request.

Occasionally a man who has been hauled into police court, says a western newspaper, asks that his name be held "on account of his mother." And this paper being a respect for the law, does not know, and grants the request.

Exciting

Several exciting and hair-raising incidents took place at the home of our good friend, Mr. J. J. Wigham, near Hethel church last Monday. Mr. Wigham was hauling cattle to the barn in the loft of which was an old barn, and when he was in the loft, a large snake, which was a copperhead, had made his home in it. When he began moving the hay bales the snake came angry and began to appear in great droves. To see who was bold enough to molest their residence and disturb their peace Mr. Wigham ran to the door of the loft and jumped into the wagon, and as he went through the opening the king bee stung him on the back of the neck. Though none of the bees attacked the horses they became excited and started to run, bumping the wagon against the barn and knocking a large snake head into the wagon. The impact threw Mr. Wigham from the wagon and he landed on his back on the ground and just as he had collected himself and begun to get up his sister appeared excitedly at the door and called him to come to the house. When he got up he found that the snake had gotten into the room. Mr. Wigham yelled back and asked "How close is this place to Hethel?" but he hurried to the house and reached there in time to kill the snake. —Harrodsburg Herald.

Easy to Open Gate.

A simple device for the operation of the heavy and cumbersome barnyard gate is that of attaching a wheel to the free end of the gate so that the ordinary hinge is not strong enough to support the weight of the gate. It is necessary to allow the free end to rest on the ground. The use of a wheel makes it unnecessary to open the gate when it is desired to open it.

Crows

A recent government report estimates the number of crows in winter roosts at Guthrie, Ky., a thousands of birds in the cedars and oaks; large numbers at Harrodsburg, and several roosts at and near Lexington with a total of 1,000 to 5,000 birds.

The most favored haunts of these sable feathered scavengers seem to be near Versailles, where government experts estimate their numbers at about 1,000 birds.

These birds make daily flights for miles in search of food, but their clamor causes them to seek a common roosting place this flocking together is more marked in cold weather than at any other time of the year.

Their chief ration is grain in corn, which fact puts them in great disfavor with the farmer. The corn consumed by these winged parasites is a considerable quantity.

In this state where the corn is left in shocks for some time in the fall and winter, losses from the crows' foraging, especially when the shock is not made properly, is very great. Red-bellied near the big roosts suffer most from the marauders. However, it has been said that the loss in corn and other crops consumed by the crows, is offset by the number of grasshoppers the birds consume in summer.

It is a well known fact that a crow is a difficult bird to kill, but in the summer and early fall a few shots fired from a shotgun to the roost usually results in breaking up the roost. Crows are not edible. Farmers blame them.

Attempted Suicide.

Distracted with grief and worry over his daughter, Ella Monroe, accused of murder, John D. Monroe attempted suicide late Saturday afternoon at his home near Solway, in Harrodsburg county, in a fit of temporary insanity he shot himself in the forehead with a 22 rifle, but only a flesh wound was inflicted. Mr. Monroe is speedily recovering from his wound, and his mental derangement appears to have subsided.

Mr. Monroe made an attempt to end his life about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Without a word of warning, he left the side porch of the house, where he and his wife were sitting, and went into one of the front rooms where he procured a gun and shot himself. His weapon was a twenty-two Stevens rifle, the property of his son, Dr. Monroe. Added impetus to the movement to secure a bond for Ella Monroe, accused of the murder of Eva Gregory, was given Monday as a result of the sympathy felt for the Monroe family, following the attempt of John Monroe to commit suicide. Twenty-six signers, with the verbal agreement that they are bound for $50 each, have been secured, although many are willing to assume a large obligation.

It is said that a friend of the Monroe family, living in the vicinity of Solway, is willing to assume the entire remainder, and it is unlikely that the girl will get her liberty before the week is closed. —Elizabethtown News.

Must Stand Up.

Baltimore.—Policemen Monday began distribution of copies of a municipal ordinance providing that "musicians, performers or other persons shall stand while playing stringed or reed instruments." The Star Spangled Banner Any person violating the provisions of the ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than $100.

Distribution was made to all theatres, moving picture halls, restaurants and cafes and to all of its musical unions or orchestras in Baltimore.

In the circular is pointed out that the indiscriminate rendering of "The Star Spangled Banner" or parts thereof, in connection with other compositions, tends to lower the esteem and reverence in which the national anthem should be held by the people of the Nation.

Now Total 1,445,664

A special from Washington to Louisville Times states:

"Motor vehicles registered in the United States numbered 2,445,664 last year and $12,245,718 was paid by their owners as registration and license fees. The flow of public roads of the Department of Agriculture shows on today that 92 per cent of the fee or $1213.47 was spent for building and maintenance of county and State roads. There was an increase of 78,325 in the number of vehicles and $5,893,700 in fees from 1914. Only 45,000 motors were registered in 1910."

The number of motor vehicles averaged one registration for every forty four persons in the United States. I was led with Joe for every sixteen inhabitants while in Alabama there was only one for every 200 persons. Reg let's in figures for the country as a whole, the good roads office explains, do not necessarily represent a total number of cars, as some of the States do not require annual registration, others group pleasure and commercial vehicles and motor cycles in their motor vehicle laws.

JAPANESE AN ABLE ORATOR
Young Student Has Carried Off Two Prizes Within a Remarkably
Short Time
One of the most interesting students of the International students
reunion held at San Francisco, Cal., last August was the oratorical contest
for a prize of $50, offered by Director Oswald John Barrett of the Pan-American union, for the best oration on the subject of Pan-Americanism.
The winner of the prize, Mr. Ren Hiro, is a senior in the economic department of Stanford university.
He was born in Hirogo prefecture, Japan, February 3, 1891. After finishing his secondary education in Japan,
he came to the United States in 1907,
and entered the San Jose High school
at San Jose, Cal.
In 1915 he entered the College of the Pacific, and the following year transferred to Stanford university.
In May, 1916, Mr. Hiro won the first prize of $50 in an oratorical contest on Japanese-American relations, held under the auspices of the Japanese Association of American College Graduates. The winning of two prizes within a period of three months
stamp the brilliant young Japanese as an orator and thinker of marked ability.

quiet an affair was it that but few people knew it was going on.

One of the heaviest rainfalls known in the county fell last Tuesday night. There were several washouts in the roads and county. The temporary bridge near Mr. T. D. Tapp's was car-

QUICK CHANGES OF LEVEL
Lake in Eastern Washington That Causes Trouble to the Residents
Along Its Borders.
A subscriber who was interested in the Companion's account of a lake
in Italy that rises and falls in a singular and unexplained way has sent us some equally strange facts about a lake in eastern Washington. The town of Kahlotta is built on the shores of the lake, and since it was built nearly submerged by one of the lake's sudden changes in level, a dike
has been built to protect the houses against another catastrophe.
The lake is normally a quarter of a mile wide and a mile and a half long, but at times the water falls so far that the lake is hardly 150 yards wide. The fall is always sudden;
and so is the rise that eventually follows. Only one small stream enters the lake, and there is no visible outlet, but the water is always fresh.
When the railway was built through Kahlotta the workmen tried to carry the tracks across the lake on an embankment, but the sand was blown up almost as fast as it was poured in. A dike was then dug to carry off the water through a tunnel into a nearby canyon. Half way through the center of the lake a crevice and disappeared into the earth. Where it comes to the surface again no one knows.
Our correspondent adds that on a ranch near the town of Kahlotta there is a deep well, the water of which at intervals of about two weeks rushes up geyserlike to a height of several feet above the ground.—Youth's Companion.
